The eight inches of snow which fell on Monday night and Tuesday morning gave youngsters a day off from school. Chris Riccio and Steven Cutone set their snow shovels on their handlebars, and went looking for driveways to shovel in Hathaway Acres.

High school renovation plans to again go before town meeting

Plans for the renovation of, and an addition to Wilmington High School are to be presented to the Town Meeting for a second time, the Permanent Building Committee decided, Monday night. The committee will ask for a $6.5 million appropriation.

The presentation will be as a warrant article in the annual town meeting on April 28. During the election, on April 21, it is the committee's hope to conduct a referendum bond vote, which will be to override Proposition 2½. The override is necessary, to get the required amount of money.

The committee, of which Diane Allan is now the chairman, had a full supporting staff, in Monday's meeting, there being two members of the school committee, one of the finance committee and a selectman. All agreed to the final decision made by the PBC.

The plans this time are not as ambitious as were those that were voted last November, and then were defeated by a referendum vote. There will be two proposals for gymnasiums, but not the large gymnasiums for which the town meeting voted. Renovation of the bleachers at the football field have been cut out, saving an estimated $62,000, and the work on the tennis courts has also been eliminated, saving another $21,000.

A proposal to eliminate the proposed vandal alarm system was defeated. That will total $114,000. Architect Doug Flockhart said it was "something you wouldn't want to cut out," and school committee member John Brooks agreed, saying that "without an alarm we might as well leave the front door open and save additional damage."

There have been changes in expected prices since the vote of last November. Architect Flockhart and fincom member Walter Kaminski spent nearly half an hour discussing the financial picture, as a result of this and other circumstances. Flockhart estimated that, when the bids are called for, the prices will be four percent higher than they would have been last fall.

Flockhart had his own reservations, on prices. The big problems, he said, was what the President and Paul Volker (of the Federal Reserve Board) were going to do, in the next nine months to affect the interest rates. The interest rates will have a bearing on the cost of the high school construction because the contractors will have to borrow money from time to time to keep their own business going, he explained.

The final prices he said, will depend on how many contractors want the job, and what the interest rates will be at that time. He had, he said "no crystal ball."

The expected cost of renovations, as approved by the PBC will be $2,963,000 and the cost of the additions will be $2,106,000. Site work and utilities are expected to come to $348,000.

The site work problems were discussed in some detail, but not with any actual decision. Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski discussed the possibility of having the town do the painting and work on the bleachers, but without any positive results.

Energy conservation technology, now being proposed by the School Building Assistance Bureau, in the reconstruction of walls, was another subject that the PBC may use, it was agreed. The reconstruction of some walls may save in fuel costs, and there is 50 to 60 percent reimbursement in such work, from the state.

The projects include the "envelope" (outer walls) and lighting fixtures, which are heat conductive in many instances, as well as boilers, dampers, domestic hot water systems, alternative energy systems, etc. Architect Douglas Flockhart, at the request of Mrs. Allan, at the end of the meeting, made a tentative schedule of the hoped for progress, in getting the renovations and additions built.

If the town meeting votes for the high school renovations and construction and if there is an override of Proposition 2½ the week before the town meeting Flockhart estimates that the earliest date to call for bids will be in November. He said he is "looking at the 16th of November" for the bids from the general contractors.

That might make it possible for construction to start on the first of December.

Previously the PBC had been looking at work to start in mid-summer, Flockhart said. Now, to start in December, will mean a "scramble" to get in the foundations before the winter sets in.

Town treasurer resigns in 'matter of questionable judgement'

Wilmington Treasurer Antonio S. Almeida has resigned in a situation which is being officially described as "a matter of questionable judgement."

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski announced the resignation on Tuesday. He said in a prepared statement that preliminary information supplied by an accountant indicates that all town funds appear to be intact and accounted for.

An unofficial source said that Mr. Almeida received a color television and a grandfather clock in return for depositing $50,000 in town funds in a certificate of deposit in a Lowell bank. The money was earning 10 percent interest, instead of the 12½ percent possible.

When asked to confirm the information concerning the grandfather clock and the television, the town manager said yes, but it should also be said that the situation has been rectified.

The statement released by the town manager on Tuesday afternoon follows:

Today, I have received a resignation from Antonio S. Almeida resigning his position as Treasurer for the Town of Wilmington. Mr. Almeida has indicated that he intends to pursue his future in another field. The resignation is effective February 24, 1984 at 4:30 p.m. and he indicates that it is irrevocable. Various rumors have circulated through the community, resulting from the employment of a Certified Public Accountant, namely, John R. Deislinger. I can report that preliminary information supplied by Mr. Deislinger indicates that all Town funds appear to be intact and accounted for.

Mr. Deislinger's review was necessitated by information received which, when evaluated by this office, indicated a matter of questionable judgement by the Treasurer, in which the dollar amount was not material.

We wish Mr. Almeida a successful and happy future in his chosen field.

I have no further comment concerning this matter at this time.

Radio tower for phone network proposed

A radio telephone in every car? Does it sound impossible?

It will soon be possible. A radio tower is to be erected in Wilmington which will be a part of the supporting equipment for car radio telephones, all over the United States and perhaps all over the world.

The Advanced Mobile Phone Service (AMPS) has been granted the right to erect a tower 150 feet high in back of the former Berecz building at 625 Main St. The building is now the Woodland building. The tower will be of heavy duty material, and have an internal strength, with no need for guy wires.

On top will be a 13 foot antenna of fiberglass. It is through that fiberglass antenna that the telephone messages will be sent and received.

A hearing was held January 26 before the Wilmington Board of Appeals. Representing AMPS was Attorney Joseph Courtney, and four technicians were also present. They are employees of Nynex, the new telephone company for New England and New York. The acting chairman of the appeal board was George Robertie.

With an AMPS phone in the car the average individual will

Wilmington man dies in Boston stabbing

A Wilmington man died in Boston last Tuesday midnight as a result of a stabbing.

According to a story in the Boston Herald, William K. Walls, Jr. was declared dead of multiple stab wounds at Brigham and Women's Hospital.

The Herald story said that Walls was stabbed after a drinking party at a Peterboro Street apartment. The alleged killer, David Atherton, 25, of Boston, turned himself in less than two hours later.

Atherton and Walls had gone to the apartment together about 8 p.m., bringing with them a six-pack of beer and two half-pints of vodka. At 11:45 p.m. the resident of the apartment, Meredith McCarthy, asked them to leave. An argument, then a shoving match, ensued between the two men. McCarthy said she saw Atherton stab Walls in the neck and chest with a large-handled knife as Walls lay on the floor. Atherton then fled.

Walls, who was 33 at the time of his death, grew up in Wilmington, and had been active in school sports. He was employed as a claims adjuster for Hartford Insurance.

Last call for Girl Scout cookies

On Sunday, February 5, Girl Scouts in Tewksbury and Wilmington will be trying to fill up the last few blank spaces on their cookie order cards before the 50th annual Girl Scout Cookie sale comes to an end.

Shortly, troop leaders and neighborhood cookie managers all over northeastern Massachusetts and southern New Hampshire will start tallying numbers to determine whether or not goals were met.

Residents who haven't yet ordered their cookies and would like to do so may call the Spar and Spindle Girl Scout Council at 774-1200 or 256-0104 for more information. Tewksbury residents may also call Joan Thomas at 851-5439. Wilmington residents may call Barbara DeVita at 658-2702 or Maureen Sutton at 658-6022.

There's a lot happening in Girl Scouting and in the 50 years the organization has been selling commercially baked Girl Scout cookies, it has been growing and changing just like the girls it serves.

Girls from Tewksbury and Wilmington join with girls from the other 54 communities and Fort Devens that make up the Spar and Spindle Girl Scout Council to take part in programs like Career Exploration Workshops, Bicycle Skills Days as well as summer day camps and resident camps.

About 40 percent of the money that makes Girl Scouting possible comes from citizens who love Girl Scout cookies. The remaining 60 percent comes from United Funds and United Ways, among other sources.

The funding allows the Spar and Spindle Council to provide programs that help girls gain the skills they need to give 100 percent to the world around them. Local troops and Girl Scouts have planned and carried out projects ranging from new badges like Ms. Fix-it and Computer Fun to field trips to Drumlin Farm and Plum Island held last fall.

Christine Steeves to wed David Richards

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Steeves of Brighton have announced the engagement of their daughter Christine Ann to Thomas Richards, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Richards of Wilmington.

Christine is a graduate of Watertown High School and Bay College. Her fiancé was educated in Wilmington schools.

A February wedding is planned.

Foreign language activities at WHS

The foreign language clubs are alive and well at Wilmington High School. Under the direction of language teachers J. Fitzgerald and L. Fernandes more than 90 students of French and Spanish participate in extracurricular activities oriented toward inter-cultural awareness and personal enrichment.

The officers of the clubs, Ginny Grice, Denise MacMullin, Beth Patterson and Tammy Wesinger, have organized a variety of events. Club members attended the award-winning film "Volver a Empezar" at the Beverly Cabot Street Theater after a Mexican dinner at ChiChi's Restaurant.

On December 1, a guided tour of the Museum of Fine Arts and a Spanish lunch at the Iruna Restaurant were enjoyed by all. To celebrate the Christmas holidays club members gathered at the Deming Way community to sing Carols and distribute homemade cards made by Miss Fitzgerald's Spanish II honors class. A Christmas "fiesta," complete with pinata, followed at Beth Patterson's home. This is just the beginning.

January activities include LaTuna's performance at the North Intermediate School on January 19 and a Saturday afternoon French movie and meal in Harvard Square. February holds an exciting performance of the renowned Ramone de Los Reyes Flamenco Dance Troupe from Spain. Language club members have been working hard on fund raising activities in order to bring this group to the W.H.S. auditorium on February 14. Plans are also being made for an international banquet, a trip to Quebec and a day trip to New York City in the spring.

Maida Eisenberg guest on radio

Maida Eisenberg will return as a guest to WRKO Radio's Dick Syatt Show on Thursday, February 2nd. Eisenberg, an expert in Chinese cooking, will join a representative of the Soydaury Company and Syatt on his popular morning talk show from 10 a.m. to noon. The three will be celebrating the Chinese New Year.

On-air festivities will include preparing several dishes live in the studio for all to hear, chatting about the special foods of the season, and taking phone calls from the listening audience.

Mrs. Eisenberg, who has been preparing food from all regions of China for over 15 years, has been conducting cooking classes for small groups and demonstrations for larger audiences for the past seven years. In addition to her appearances on the Syatt Show, she has been a frequent guest on WLLH radio in Lowell. Next Thursday's broadcast can be heard on 68 AM radio.

CLOCK TOCK

by
THE CLOCKFOLK OF NEW ENGLAND
Wilmington

Weights run a clock by driving gears which, in turn, push a pendulum. Every mechanical clock before about 1450 ran from a weight hanging on a rope wound around the axle of the largest gear in the clock mechanism. Weights are still used to run many clocks today. It seems odd, with the advancement of society, that something as simple as a heavy iron weight would be used for the power source of such a necessary item as a clock. The reason is that weights give even power thus enabling excellent timekeeping to be achieved.

The weight is just as heavy when the clock is unwound as when it is fully wound. Mainsprings, on the other hand, get weaker as they run down, so the accuracy suffers. This is why most wind-up clocks are eight-day - so that if it is wound weekly, the time keeping will not have a chance to vary noticeably. Weights in clocks differ as to materials and poundage. Cuckoo clock weights are often half a pound, whereas Big Ben in London has three weights totaling two and one-half tons. Early weights were large stone blocks.

New England has many clocks in church steeples with weights made of fieldstones in wooden crates. We have heard of an old cannon serving continuous duty as a clock weight for a church in Maine. Commercial clocks however, generally have a custom cast weight as deemed proper for the timepiece and modern grandfather clocks have weights encased in polished brass tubes for appearance.

Next - What are some of the world's biggest clocks?

Two Eagle Scouts receive blessings of Pope

Anthony Caperci II and Stan Dancewicz III, of Troop 63, Boy Scouts sponsored by St. Thomas Church of Wilmington received a special blessing from Pope John Paul, during an Eagle Court of Honor on January 27, 1984. The blessing was presented by Fr. Thomas D. Reynolds, who also presented a medal and a picture to each of the Eagle Scouts. Both Scouts have been members of Troop 63 for the past six years.

The opening remarks were by former scoutmaster Stan Dancewicz Jr. John Virtus, also a former scoutmaster of Troop 63 was master of ceremonies. The opening of the ceremony featured a color guard from Troop 136, conducted by Bill Caperci, brother of one of the honored scouts.

Anthony Caperci is the son of Mrs. Olga Caperci of Birchwood Road. Stan Dancewicz III is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Dancewicz of Pineview Road, Wilmington.

The Eagle Charge was given by James Richter of the Greater Lowell Council, Council Advancement Officer, and the Eagle Presentation was by Al Deprez of the Greater Lowell Council.

Sen. Buell compares Cherry Sheet figures

Given the Governor's recently-proposed local aid funding for Fiscal Year 1985, Senator Robert C. Buell (1st Essex and Middlesex) thought it might be interesting to compare what the communities in our area are receiving as the bottom line figure from their cherry sheets, and further, to contrast these amounts with the aid being achieved by the City of Boston. "In light of the fact that the new mayor of the City of Boston finds himself in a precarious position left him by his predecessors, he is seeking an even larger increase in state aid than that which Boston already has received," Senator Buell pointed out.

The Senator reported that for the current fiscal year 1984, the Town of Wilmington's per capita net cherry sheet funding from the state was $187.70. The neighboring community of Reading received $145.67, while Tewksbury received $248.17, per capita. In comparison, the City of Boston received $479.15 per capita.

"While the three Middlesex County communities comply with assessing property at full and fair cash value and each can accurately pinpoint its number of full-time enrolled students and its total population, the City of Boston on these items is suspect and not totally accurate," said Senator Buell. "The reason for our concern is that those three items, to a large extent, determine the amount of state aid that goes out to cities and towns," he explained.

Senator Buell said that for Fiscal Year 1985, Governor Dukakis has proposed, under the category of additional assistance, per capita increases of approximately $14 for Wilmington, $18 for Reading, $23 for Tewksbury and $47 for Boston.

Smoke detectors saved family

Three members of the Casey family escaped from a midnight house fire in their Chestnut Street, Wilmington home after they were awakened by a smoke detector.

The fire had started near the ash pit of a fireplace, worked its way up a wall, and was working its way horizontally under the second floor, according to Deputy Fire Chief Daniel Stewart. The fire was on the second floor when the smoke detectors went off.

Mrs. Diane Casey and two children escaped unharmed. The fire occurred on the night of Friday, Jan. 20.

Stewart said that the building inspector had found that everything was installed according to building codes. The fire, Stewart said, resulted from wood near the fireplace, repeatedly exposed to heat, having a lower ignition point than new wood.

The town of Wilmington, in the 1983 annual town meeting, adopted a state law requiring smoke detectors in all homes.

Democrats to caucus Feb. 11

Registered Democrats in Tewksbury and Wilmington will hold separate caucuses on February 11 at 2 p.m. to elect delegates to send to the June 9 Mass. Democratic Convention.

Delegates at the state convention will endorse a candidate for US Senate and choose delegates to send to the 1984 Democratic National Convention.

Tewksbury will elect 12 delegates while Wilmington will elect 10 delegates. The delegates must be equally split between male and female in each town. Both towns will also elect two alternates.

The determination of how many delegates each town elects is based on a formula that gives equal weight to the Democratic Party registration in each town and the average vote for Democratic candidates in the last general election for governor and president.

Only registered Democrats as of Dec. 29, 1983 can take part when Charles T. Coppola calls the Tewksbury caucus to order in the Tewksbury Town Hall and Ralph H. Peterson calls the Wilmington caucus to order in the Wilmington 4th of July Headquarters (old library building).

Retirement party Mel Southmayd

It was Mel Southmayd Day in Wilmington on January 27 by proclamation of the chairman of the Board of Selectmen, Dan Ballou.

It was also the day that Mel Southmayd was out of a job. Or maybe it can be said that the job ran out on Mel Southmayd.

There was a surprise party for Mel at the Wilmington K of C Hall. It was a complete surprise. About 300 people were present to honor and roast Melvin Southmayd.

Melvin and Madelyn live on Glen Road. Ever since 1930 Mel Southmayd has worked in Wilmington, just about every day. For the past 30 years he has been running gas stations combined with garages.

For the past 15 years or so it was a garage down by the Woburn line, on Main Street. The building dated back to World War I days or earlier. There have been a series of owners.

The latest owner is a man named Donald Bradley. He lives in Woburn. Don wants the place for his own business. The new owner took over on the last Friday of January, at the close of the business day.

For the first time in 54 years Mel Southmayd was out of a job. His friends helped him celebrate. Rocco DePasquale was the roast master and Mel's son, Tom Southmayd was the toast master.

Rocco recalled how Mel had worked for Peter Neilson, back in 1930 when he was 12 years old. That called in the Town Crier publisher, who was able to go back further, and tell of Mel running around St. Paul Street clad only in an undershirt.

Rocco told of how Mel and Bill Tanner got together to run a service station. Bill Tanner lived in Tewksbury, and he still does.

Rudy Russo recalled when Mel had a service station at Sam Grant's, beside the Shawshen Avenue bridge. From there Mel went on to run a Texaco Service Station across from Wilmington Plaza. Rudy had a few tales to tell, about how he learned to "doctor" cars from Mel, and how today he has a different kind of doctoring job.

That reminded Rocco of the blue Buick LeSabre that Mel had in 1960. Rocco was envious, and finally Rocco was able to buy that car. That was when Mel bought his boat.

For some reason, Rocco said, there was always a noise in the right front wheel. Nothing that Rocco could do would stop that noise.

Tom Southmayd, Mel's son, had a comment. The reason that Buick had a noise in the right front wheel was because he, Tom, had an accident, hitting another car. Tom was never able to get rid of that noise.

It was a lot of fun. Rocco toasted Mel as a man who had worked long and hard, a master mechanic who had closed his shop today. Mel is a man who would always help another, and who would always lend a hand to people in the community.

There were presentations from Rep. Jim Miceli, representing Governor Dukakis, and representing the Massachusetts House of Legislators.

Larry Noel, who has worked for Mel for many years, was one of the organizers. He had half a dozen gifts.

It was a wonderful time.

Mel and Madelyn Southmayd arrive at his surprise party

Bar association honors Sen. McGovern

The Massachusetts Bar Association (MBA) announced that its "Legislator of the Year" award would be presented to Senator Patricia McGovern at its upcoming Midyear meeting.

"McGovern, who makes her home in Lawrence, represents the Second Essex and Middlesex District in the State Senate. The district includes Lawrence, Billerica, Tewksbury and most of the town of Andover.

A member of the bar since 1972, McGovern graduated Suffolk University and Suffolk Law School and attended the Academy of International Law at The Hague in Netherlands.

Prior to her election to the Senate in 1980, she had served as Executive Director of the Massachusetts Committee on Criminal Justice, and as a member of the board of the Massachusetts Defenders Committee.

The first woman lawyer ever elected to the Massachusetts

Senate, Patricia McGovern serves on a number of standing committees in the General Court, including the Joint Committee on the Judiciary and the Joint Committee on Criminal Justice, which latter Committee she has chaired for the Senate since its inception in 1982.

McGovern also chairs a Special Committee on Rules for the Senate and a Special Committee to Review Commitment and Release Procedures of the Department of Mental Health, and is a member of the Governor's Anti-Crime Council.

McGovern has taken a particular interest in the administration of the judicial system, especially in the criminal justice area. In the brief time she has served in the Legislature she became the principal advocate for a reorganization of indigent defense services, culminating in the recent enactment of the legislature to establish a statewide Committee for Public Counsel Services.

Other legislative successes have included victims rights legislation, a revision in penalties for drunk driving, an extensive technical revision of statutes dealing with sentencing for drug dealing, and statewide expansion of the MBA-endorsed Middlesex County Jury Reform System.

Very recent successes include two MBA-supported bills dealing with child custody, the Massachusetts Child Custody Jurisdiction Act and the "shared legal custody" legislation.

Continuing projects for McGovern include an upgrading of courthouse facilities around the state and a recodification of criminal statutes, including a system of presumptive sentencing.

MBA President William Bernstein said that "The public generally as well as the bar are fortunate to have a person with Senator McGovern's background and commitment in the Senate. Her thoughtful and conscientious advocacy of improvements in the courts has proven to be effective."

Bernstein added, "The continuing deterioration in the physical facilities of a number of the courthouses around the state has become a vital issue to all persons concerned with the administration of justice. We are indeed encouraged to see Senator McGovern involved in this issue."

Bernstein said that the Association's Award is presented to legislators who have been especially effective in improving the administration of justice in the commonwealth.

The presentation will be made at the Association's Midyear meeting January 28 at the Boston Park Plaza Hotel.

Oh Holy Spirit, Thou who are all knowing, who brightens every path that I may reach my idea, Thou who givest me this divine gift of forgiving and forgetting wrongs done unto me, and who in every instant of my life art with me, I'd like in this short dialogue to affirm my gratitude for all your blessings and re-affirm once again that I never want to part from Thee though the illusion of material things abound.

Tewksbury scares Chelmsford, 62-51

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

No one attending last Friday night's 62-51 Tewksbury High School girls' varsity basketball loss to unbeaten Chelmsford (7-0, MVC) left with any complaints concerning the locals' performance.

Coach Barry Sheehan's girls (3-4, MVC) playing minus Nancy DeStefano (ankle sprain) and Laura Briggs (long standing leg ailment), came up with a superb second half effort defensively to spook Chelmsford and all-star guard Michelle Altobello.

Senior guard Sandy Hennessy, who has been playing superb basketball over the past two weeks, came up with 21 points and several key steals (five for the game) during a second half rally that saw Tewksbury slice the Lions' lead to very workable margins twice at 33-32 in the third quarter and 52-49 late in the fourth. The Redmen had faced a 33-24 halftime deficit.

Senior forward Missy Riddle came up with 16 points (10 in the third quarter), nine steals and seven assists. According to Sheehan, both Hennessy and Riddle played the best games of their high school careers.

Sheehan and assistant coach Don Ciampa fully expected to hand the Lions their first conference loss of the season despite a rather lopsided setback to CHS earlier in the year.

"We've been playing really well," offered Sheehan afterwards. "I was concerned depth wise because of the injuries, but Michelle Catalano and Elaine Hill gave us good support off the bench tonight. I'm really confident throwing eight or nine kids in there now, and that enables us to play much better defense in the fourth quarter."

Sophomore guard Karen Hennessy has also responded well, and Tewksbury has been getting solid efforts from seniors Mary Rheault and Eileen Griffin up front.

Griffin in fact, played a super game in a 56-46 victory over Lowell early in the week, coming up with a brilliant three or four minute stretch at one point (she scored seven of the team's 14 third quarter points) before finishing with 11 points. For Eileen, who played junior varsity for two years to develop her game, all that hard work is paying off in a fine season.

Griffin and the TMHS frontcourt of Rheault, Green and Riddle has recovered nicely after a slow start on both backboards this season. "We're boxing out a lot better than we were early in the year," noted Sheehan.

The difference in the game was not the highly recruited guard Altobello, but forward Chris O'Leary, who burned the Redmen for 19 first half points.

Tewksbury trailed 45-39 after the third quarter despite an early surge in that stanza to cut the Lions' lead to one point.

A Chelmsford three point play widened the gap to 50-39 with 6:27 left in the game, and it looked like twilight time in Tewksbury.

But all Sheehan coached teams are fortified with defense and the ability to scrap, and scrap they did, all the way back to 52-49 after a Sandy Hennessy jumper and a subsequent steal and layup by the TMHS senior guard.

The Lions iced the contest at the foul line however, as the Redmen were forced to scramble defensively in the later stages. Six straight charity tosses sent the visitors up 58-51, while Tewksbury could manage just one bucket, a Missy Riddle jumper with less than a minute to play.

Redmen ramblings....Mary Rheault (15 points, four steals, three assists) and Missy Riddle (11 points) also turned in solid efforts in the win over Lowell.

Ciampa's junior varsity improved their slate to 5-2 with a 36-26 conquest of Chelmsford, overcoming a 4-2 'advantage' after one quarter. Pam Brothers paced the winners with 12 points, getting help from Val Flaherty (9) and Cindy Lobsein (6).

Coach John Bresnahan's freshmen girls got the afternoon off to a fine start with an easy 35-18 victory over the Chelmsford frosh.

Andover downs Wildcats
Wilmington High School's girls continued to struggle with Friday night's 58-52 loss to Andover at WHS. Junior center Gail Lombard played a solid game for coach Doug Anderson, scoring 17 points and hauling down 12 rebounds.

Sandy splits the Lions

Tewksbury High School senior guard Sandy Hennessy splits a pair of Chelmsford defenders in Friday night's 62-51 loss at TMHS. Sandy led the Redmen with 21 points. See story this page.

MVC boys' basketball

Redmen come up empty

The TMHS boys' varsity basketball squad enjoyed a lead late in the fourth quarter of their see-saw affair with Chelmsford Friday night, but turnovers and an offense that turned to stone sent coach Bob Melillo's Redmen down to defeat again, 53-48 before a raucous TMHS crowd.

The game was deadlocked at halftime and after three quarters, but a 19 point Chelmsford explosion in the final stanza sent the visitors home happy.

Late in the game, freshman guard Tim Boudreau had a chance to tie the score, but was whistled down for an offensive foul on a baseline drive. The play came after the Redmen had stolen the ball and called a timeout.

Again it was senior forward Dave Whitney doing the bulk of the scoring, finishing with 20 points.

Andover topples Wildcats
Wilmington High School's

varsity boys had a chance to finally crack into the conference win column, but a 10 for 21 performance from the foul line spelled defeat again, as the Wildcats fell, 52-40 to the Andover Golden Warriors. Wilmington senior Sean O'Brien paced the Cats with 13 points.

Light at the end of TMHS tunnel

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

There just might be a little light at the end of the Tewksbury High School basketball tunnel.

A year ago, junior varsity coach Paul Garrity, a former standout player at Tufts University, was faced with the task of trying to turn a fundamentally unsound group of freshmen into something resembling a basketball team. The 1983-84 TMHS junior varsity outfit won just one game, and Garrity, like varsity coach Bob Melillo, knew that he was very much part of a program that required more than a little rebuilding.

Tewksbury matmen plant Lowell, 33-25

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

No, it was not the first time that the team had ever defeated Lowell High School, but last Wednesday night's 33-25 TMHS wrestling victory over the former Merrimack Valley grappling kingpin was still satisfying enough, as the win improved coach Al Donovan's building team to a very solid 8-3 on the year.

After dropping the first two matches, senior co-captain Paul Ferdinand (11-0) decisively Lowell's Scott Taylor decisively 14-2 at 114 pounds to get the Redmen off and running.

Paul Ferdinand's 11-0 record has helped the Redmen to a solid 8-3 season.

One match later, 128 pound Steve Voto (9-1) notched Tewksbury's second win of the night with a 9-5 victory over Mark Sheldon.

The Redmen then strung together three straight victories to take control of the match. Mark Donovan (134) topped Jay Santos, 13-8; Pat Sands (140) pinned Jay Broderick at 37 seconds; and co-captain John Voto (147) planted Lowell's Jim Deschenaux at 4:34.

Freshman Brian Aylward (6-3-1), who has been the team's

Hanafin keys Wilmington

There was plenty of activity for the Youth Basketball traveling teams last week, as the seventh graders journeyed to North Reading Tuesday, January 24, Saturday (Jan. 28) both the seventh and eighth grade teams journeyed to Masconomet High School in Topsfield for two games before playing three games Sunday.

In the Tuesday night game, Steve Hanafin led the seventh graders to a 44-29 victory over North Reading. Hanafin hit for 13 points and picked off 13 rebounds. Also scoring in a fine outing was Jon Masse and Jeff Bowen with eight points each. Andy Parr followed with six, Brian Davis four, while Mike Buonopane and Jason Oliver each had two. Under the boards, Masse pulled in nine rebounds, Buonopane three and Oliver had two boards. Defensively, Mark Vigliotti played a fine game, with plenty of help from Jeff Botte, Eric Penttinen, Ron Pennie, Brian Pupa and Mark Palmisano.

The second game Saturday afternoon was a blowout, as the eighth graders ripped Masconomet, 57-35 with a well balanced scoring attack of four boys hitting double figures. Eric Penttinen led the scoring with a solid 15 points. He was followed by Joe McMenimen with 12, then Pat Nally and Mike Lombard close behind with 10 each. Both Danny Woods and Paul Maiella had four points. Kevin Ouellette and Tim Moran had two each. Lombard, in a fine team effort, passed out six assists. McMenimen and Penttinen pulled in six rebounds each. Tony DeSantis handed out two assists, while leading the defensive action along with Danny Woods, Tom Moran and Jonathan Oliver.

Sunday, Winchester invaded the Shawsheen Tech gym, wiping out the sixth and seventh graders, but falling to the eighth graders. In the first game, the sixth graders held their own, trailing 11-10 after the first half. Then it was all Winchester, in rolling to the 32-13 final. Leading the scoring for the locals were Mark Bobek and Bob Caruso with four points each. Mike George and Jamey Robichaud had two each, and Mike Burns had one. Under the boards, Bobek pulled in eight rebounds, Steven Killelea five and Chris Ricco four. Defensive pressure was supplied by Joe McFayden, John Mullowney, Eric Eisenberg, Larry Flynn and Joe Mahoney.

The seventh graders ran into a buzzsaw Winchester team and were never able to get their game going, as they lost 46-8. Mark Palmissano led the scoring with four points. Hanafin had three and Neil Penttinen scored one. Winchester employed a speedy defense and great ball stealing ability to dominate the game.

The third game of the afternoon turned into a doneybrook, as the lead changed hands several times with Winchester up by two at the quarter, Wilmington ahead by 12 at the half and a tie score at the three-quarter mark. An excellent fourth quarter by Wilmington enabled the eighth graders to forge to a 54-43 win.

Mike Lombard, in a fine outing, sank 20 points for the winners, while raking in 11 rebounds. Joe McMenimen hit for 10. Eric Penttinen had nine points while doing an outstanding job at both ends of the court in pulling down 11 rebounds. Danny Woods hit for six, Pat Nally four, Tony DeSantis three and Paul Maiella two. DeSantis and Woods each had two key steals along with another steal from Tom Moran. Defensive pressure was solid throughout the game, as Kevin Ouellette, Tim and Tom Moran, Jonathan Oliver and Tim Fay each did their thing.

The eighth graders currently sport a 12-3 record on the season. Next week the boys travel to Haverhill Saturday and return home Sunday to host Masconomet at the Shawsheen Tech gym.

A review of past action

Wilmington's youth basketball teams had mixed results during the past week of activity. Both the seventh and eighth graders romped over Burlington last Tuesday night, then Sunday, Lynnfield bopped both the seventh and eighth grade teams, as the sixth graders lost by two points to Wakefield, followed by a Monday night victory by the eighth graders over North Reading.

Tuesday evening the boys visited Burlington at the Middlesex Community College gym with the seventh graders winning by 15 points over Burlington, 45-30, as the eighth graders romped 65-31 over their counterparts. Seventh grade scoring was led by Steve Hanafin's 14 points and Jon Masse's 12 points. Also making themselves felt in the scoring department were Mark Palmisano five, Jeff Bowen four, while Andy Parr, Brian Davis, Ron Pennie and Jeff Botte each had two and Mike Buonopane and Neil Penttinen hit for one each. The rebounding action was led by Masse with 10, Hanafin seven, along with Brian Pupa, Andy Parr each with two off the boards.

The eighth graders presented a well balanced scoring attack in their romp over Burlington. Eric Penttinen and Mike Lombard shared high scoring honors with 12 points each, with Pat Nally close behind with 11. Joe McMenimen sank eight, Kevin Ouellette, six, Tim Moran and Danny Woods each hit for five, Paul Maiella three, Tom Moran had two and Tim Fay one. Wilmington controlled the backboards, as Lombard pulled down 11 rebounds, McMenimen nine, Fay and Ouellette four each and Maiella three. Tim Moran led the assists department with five and Woods followed with three. Jonathan Oliver led the defensive action, as the ball hawkers stole the ball seven times.

Lady Luck deserted the boys Sunday, as Lynnfield took it to both older teams and the Wakefield sixth graders defeated the locals, 33-30 in a well played game. The scoring for the sixth graders was led by Jamey Robichaud with a season high total 20 points. Mark Bobek and Mike George followed with four each and Scott Tuxbury had two. Rebounding action was led by Bobek with five, Tuxbury with four, Bob Caruso three and Joe Mahoney one. Anchoring a fine defensive effort was Eric Eisenberg, Larry Flynn, Steven Killelea, John Mullowney, Joe McFayden and Chris Riccio.

Sunday's second game saw the seventh grade drop a 67-31 decision to a well drilled Lynnfield team. Hanafin led the scoring with 11 points, Masse and Pupa each hit for five, Buonopane had four, with two points each from Botte and Davis. Rebounding was led by Hanafin with eight and Masse with three. ## Tewksbury Youth Hockey

Squirt B's fall in finals, 2-1

Tewksbury's Squirt B team once again showed its' potential in the recently played Christmas Tournament in Tyngsboro. After three impressive wins, the Redmen lost in the finals to a very strong team from Keene, 2-1.

In game one, the boys defeated a team from the lakes region of New Hampshire by a score of 4-1. Bill Dolley and Chris Mikule both scored unassisted goals. Mark Harrington and Steve Previte also scored, with Mikule and Previte assisting. Standout players on defense were Mike Frasca and Billy Latta.

Game two saw All-Star goalie Bobby Ernest shutout Dover, N.H. 5-0. Mark Silva scored twice from the point once being assisted by Mikule. Mark Ingersoll also netted two goals, with assists going to Dave Crowe, Jeff MacNeil, Bill Dooley and John Pawelczyk. Mike Prifti and David Whitman played powerful position hockey.

Game three saw the boys destroy Pentucket, 7-1. Previte had the hat trick, with assists going to star defenseman Dan Gangemi, Dooley and Frasca. Silva and Dooley both netted unassisted goals. Other goals were scored by Ingersoll and Dooley, with the assists handed out to MacNeil, Harrington and Whitman. Playing an outstanding game at both ends of the rink was Chris Richard.

In game four, Dooley scored Tewksbury's only goal, assisted by Harrington. After the game the boys received a silver olympic style medal for being runners-up in the tournament.

The Mite A team played three very exciting games in the Christmas Tournament before losing to the Casco Bay, Maine All-Stars in the championship game.

Game one saw the boys at their best, as goalies Mike Correia and Mike DeGregorio shutout Billerica, 4-0. Kevin Andriolo scored his first big league goal, as he was assisted by Brandon Wagner and David Henderson. Jay Beasley scored the second goal, with defenseman Brian Kelly assisting. Mike Delaney netted the next score, with Beasley assisting. The final surprise came when Tom McMenimen scored, with Delaney assisting.

The second game saw Mike Delaney score a hat trick plus assist on a goal, as the boys beat Haverhill, 7-1. Wagner scored, with Henderson assisting. Defensemen Jerry Murphy and Steve Patterson both netted unassisted goals in the final period. Tewksbury's final goal was scored by winter Randy Cunningham, with Douglas assisting.

Game three saw the Mites turn back a pesky Dover, N.H. team, 3-1. Delaney scored first on a pretty pass from Beasley. Wagner had the game winner, with his counterpart Henderson assisting. Delaney scored the insurance goal, with right winger Ryan Columbus setting up the goal on a nice pass from behind the net.

In the championship game, the boys had to face a team that had scored a total of 37 goals in three previous games. Even though Tewksbury came up on the short end by a score of 3-2, the boys from Casco Bay will always remember the Mites from Tewksbury.

Douglas Lottatore netted the first score, with Wagner and Henderson assisting. Tewksbury's final score was notched by Randy Cunningham, with Murphy and Henderson assisting.

The boys held their heads high, as they accepted individual silver medals for being runners-up in the tournament.

jack-of-all-trades wrestling at three weight classes, then dropped an 18-4 decision to Tim Siopes at 157.

The home squad proceeded to put the match in their hip pockets however when Paul Mills (169) took Mike Kennedy, 15-7 and Paul Stephens pinned Tyler Jones at 2:16.

Going into tonight's (Feb. 1) important match with Westford, the Redmen own victories over Lowell, Dracut, Wilmington, Greater Lawrence, Reading, Lynnfield, Masconomet and North Reading. The losses have come at the hands of MVC leader Methuen, Chelmsford and Lawrence.

Donovan sees Ferdinand as "the definite favorite to win the Division II state championship."

Steve Voto faces perhaps his biggest challenge of the season when he squares off against Westford's Pantanella (11-1).

Tewksbury records thus far read Dennis Perry (5-4), Steve Flaherty (7-3), Scott Weisenise (2-3-1), Mark Donovan (5-4-1), Pat Sands (5-4, with five straight wins), John Voto (3-3-1), Paul Stephens (7-3) and Paul Mills (5-4).

three times. Andy Parr, Buonopane, Pennie Penttinen, Palmisano, Oliver and Vigliotti led the defensive action.

Sunday's final game action brought the iron of the North Shore Basketball League to the Shawsheen Tech gym and an easy 57-44 win over the eighth graders. High scoring honors went to Joe McMenimen and Mike Lombard with 14 each. Nally hit for eight, Tony DeSantis had four, Tim Fay two and one each from Tom Moran and Danny Woods. Not scoring, but doing a fine defensive job were Tom Moran, Kevin Ouellette, Paul Maiella and Jonathan Oliver.

Monday night the eighth graders got back on the winning track with a solid defeat of North Reading, 55-44. Mike Lombard led the scoring with 15 points, followed by Pat Nally and Joe McMenimen with 11 each. Eric Penttinen had six, Tony DeSantis five, Danny Woods three and a bucket each by Kevin Ouellette and Paul Maiella. Lombard was strong under the boards, pulling in 16 rebounds along with four each from Tim Fay and Nally. Tim and Tom Moran led a tough defensive effort.

Wildcats keep rolling, 6-2

Wilmington High School's undefeated hockey squad (9-0-2 overall) kept rolling Saturday night with a 6-2 victory over Andover at the WYIA. The Wildcats snapped a 1-1 tie with three second period goals.

Shawsheen Tech roundup

Rams stay on a roll

Shawsheen Tech's hockey and basketball squads remained among the best in the area with impressive victories last week. The hockey squad (12-0-1) took Northeast Regional, 8-5 with Rod Murphy scoring three goals and Tim Campbell and Mike Stone notching two apiece.

The basketball club (12-1) was equally as impressive, belting Tyngsboro, 76-53 and rolling past Minuteman Regional, 64-46. Tony Melton (10), Brian Bouthillette (13) and Bob Sgroso (17) were the top guns in the Tyngsboro romp. Bouthillette (19) and Melton (18) sparked the team over Minuteman Regional.

Brian Tully scored twice for the Cats, with single scores to Dennis Moran, Steve Caizzi, Dave Fuller and Scott Robbins. Moran and Dean Athanasia had the assists.

Wilmington Youth Hockey

Edmonds backbones Pee Wee B's

Wilmington's Pee Wee B East Division Youth Hockey squad was impressive in recent action with a 2-1 victory over Tewksbury. Goalie Steve Edmonds backboned the win, with Kevin Barrett scoring the two goals assisted by Billy Burns and Ricky Cristo. Defenseman Scotty Brennan also played a fine game, as did centers Matt

Lopez and Jimmy Mugford. Squirt B's 5 Winthrop 0
Goalie Kerry McAuliffe notched the shutout, with the goals provided by Jamie Pote, Greg Connolly, Matthew LaCava and two by George Orflay. Connolly, Chris Patterson and Mike Gagliardi had two assists apiece.

JV's from page six

With several seniors on the varsity club this year, Garrity's job becomes all the more important. While he doesn't like to talk about his one win season of a year ago, this year the junior varsity coach is more than pleased to produce statistics that show that there is hope around all the gray area that has clouded Tewksbury basketball.

This season the junior varsity is 3-7 entering the January 31 tilt with Haverhill. The team has dropped its last four games by eight points or less and features players of some potential.

Friday the junior Redmen dropped a tough 50-47 contest at Chelmsford with sophomore forward Bob Dunlay again shining with 14 points. Matt Conserva contributed 12 points to the Tewksbury cause.

Garrity plays just about everyone on this squad, with the leaders including Dunlay (85 points, 9.4 avg.), forward Shawn Blades (52, 5.8), point guard Joe Vecchi (69, 8.6), Conserva (48, 6.0), Bob Briggs (42, 4.7), Jeff Smith (41, 5.1) and junior forward Barry Dick (66, 11.0) a player who has since cracked the varsity to join his twin brother Brian.

Other players working to improve at the junior varsity level are Sean Doherty, Bob Byers, Jeff Sands, Joe Welch and Brian Itzhowitz. Sophomore Rob Aylward thus far has played just one junior varsity game, spending most of his time with the big club.

As a team the junior varsity has scored 436 points (48.4) through 10 games, while their opponents have notched 479 for an average of 53.2.

The one real blemish on this team's slate so far is a poor performance from the foul stripe. Tewksbury has made only 116 of 262 free throws for a shaky .443 percentage. Its' a safe bet that the team would have won a couple of those close setbacks had it sank a few more free tosses.

But a focus on the future appears to be there, with Garrity developing a board banging big man (Dunlay), a point guard (Vecchi) and a shooter with some potential (Briggs and Conserva).

to the Salem State College Hockey Classic All-Tournament Team after scoring three goals with an assist in the two game annual tourney. The honor is the first of Robinson's four year hockey career at St. Anselm.

Although Saint Anselm dropped its' two Salem State Classic games, 8-5 to host Salem State and 8-6 to North Adams State in consolation play, the Hawks more recently have won three consecutive games to move to 7-9 overall. Saint Anselm was an ECAC Division II playoff representative last season, and hopes to repeat this year.

Robinson, a former three year letterman in hockey at Austin Prep of Reading, is the fourth-leading scorer on the Hawk squad with seven goals and eight assists.

Barbara Mette named director of district band concert

Ms. Barbara Mette, band director at Wilmington High School, has been chosen to conduct the Massachusetts Music Educators' Junior High Music Festival Concert.

Students in this honors band represent more than 50 schools in the Northeast District, which includes Boston and cities and towns up to the Maine border. Assisting in the concert were Sgt. Rooney and Officers Cuoco and Redding.

There were 26 alarms in Wilmington during the past week, and a total of 10 disturbances. Seventeen accidents were reported, and six arrests were made. There were six reports of larceny, five of suspicious activity, and three persons were taken into protective custody.

There were two cases of breaking and entering, and four cases in which the police were called for domestic problems. One sex crime was reported, there were three traffic complaints, and five cases of vandalism.

Ms. Mette has selected pieces that will demonstrate the students' outstanding talent and versatility, including "Festivo" by Nelhybel and "Rondo for Winds and Percussion" by Edmonson.

Only outstanding artists and teachers are invited to conduct at this festival. Given the high level of talent and the brevity of the rehearsal time, a proven success and rapport with junior high-students is essential.

Her teaching in Wilmington, includes the high school band, the jazz ensemble and the junior high band. She also supervises an intensive band training camp each August.

In addition to this recent honor, Ms. Mette was also sought out to adjudicate the New England Music Festival in the categories of French horn, trumpet and low brass.

She received her M.A. in performance from Michigan State University where she was also a graduate teaching assistant. She did advanced studies at Eastman School of Music and Berklee College of Music, and studied privately with Neil Sanders in London and the U.S. She has also studied with David O'Hanion of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Her performance credits include the Northshore Philharmonic, Cape Ann Symphony, Merrimac Philharmonic and the Reading Symphony.

Republican David Leavitt seeks state rep seat

Announcing his intention recently to run for the Twenty-first Middlesex District being vacated by Michael Barrett, David E. Leavitt enters the race with the support of local notables June Prue and Thomas McGrail. Attorney Prue is chairperson of the North Reading Republican Committee and Mr. McGrail is out-going chairperson of the Reading Republican Town Committee.

Leavitt, a product of primary schools in both North Reading and Reading and a 1975 graduate of Reading Memorial High School, went on to receive his B.A. from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and his M.A. in history from the University of Minnesota at Minneapolis. While working toward his masters, Leavitt was a teaching assistant and has applied for substitute teaching positions in the Reading and North Reading school systems.

"No one is aware as I am of the need to continue the economic recovery. The first-hand experience of supporting myself working outside my chosen field has been quite a sobering one. This has not, however, lessened my desire to improve my condition or to improve the state of things in Massachusetts.

"There are many issues which need to be addressed: rules reform in the legislature, continuing to rebuild the economy, and concerns about education. I shall be a vigilant legislator in my efforts in all these areas and a voice to be heard in opposition to those, especially in the Democratic House leadership, who continue to disregard calls for constructive reform."

The campaign will lay heavy stress on going door-to-door in the district to meet constituents. This effort is expected to be under way within the next few weeks and will give voters the chance to see that the district can continue to expect thoughtful, serious, and open representation on Beacon Hill.

Wilmington police news

Five arrests on offenses related with alcohol were made last weekend in Wilmington.

Steve Groves of Tewksbury was arrested by officers Matarese and Neville and charged with being a minor, under age, in possession of alcohol. He was later bailed for a Monday court appearance.

Four were arrested on Saturday. Eric Von Schantz, 18, of Grace Drive, Wilmington; Mark Little, 17, of Temple Street, Tewksbury; Michael McCarthy, 17, of Merrimack Street Lowell and Phillip J. Valente, 21, of Burlington Avenue, Wilmington were arrested by officers Parsons and Peterson.

Valente was also charged with the possession of Class B amphetamines.

Francis A. Phillion, 34, of 111 West Street, Wilmington was arrested by officers McNally and Matarese and charged with the possession of a Class D drug, and charged with intent to distribute. He was also charged with receiving stolen property and defacing the serial numbers of a firearm. Phillion is scheduled to be arraigned in Woburn Court Tuesday.

There were 26 alarms in Wilmington during the past week, and a total of 10 disturbances. Seventeen accidents were reported, and six arrests were made. There were six reports of larceny, five of suspicious activity, and three persons were taken into protective custody.

have a telephone service equal to, if not superior to any one would have today at home. They are special phones. Motorola seems to be the only American company which makes them. The cost is $3,000. A Japanese company also makes a competing model, which sells for $2,000.

The person who wants the telephone service buys the phone and has it installed. A Cadillac dealer, the appeal board was told, is planning to have telephones installed in cars he plans to sell.

No one may use a telephone without the special knowledge of the "keyword" for that particular telephone. AMPS does not, it seems, anticipate any thefts.

A "main" tower and station is under erection in Roxbury. It is of the same materials, and with the same specifications, as that of the Wilmington tower. There will be, in the near future, a gridwork of these AMPS stations. There will be over a dozen in the Greater Boston area.

The sites are being chosen by computer analysis. It was that analysis that led to the site behind the Woodland building. AMPS does not want a tower to be on a hill, the board was told. They want a tower which is 150 feet above the ground.

The 400 $$$$$$

I received an oil bill for $423 the other day and thought, shucks, there's just no end to it. You finally get caught up from Christmas, and wham! the bills start piling up all over again. I had to cheer myself up, and since I couldn't swing an impromptu trip to Hawaii for the week, I decided to pull out that recent superduper issue of Forbes magazine — the one that features their yearly four hundred wealthiest people in America. It always makes me feel that my debts are minimal when I see how much those guys (and gals) on the list earn. In case you haven't seen the list (which is pretty impressive) and in case you're in need of a little dose of the same medicine, I thought I'd dedicate this entire column to some of the names on the list I'll start at the top, where the net wealth starts at $1 billion and up:

Right at the very top of the heap is the guy who is believed to be the richest man in America. His name is Gordon Peter Getty, 49, of San Francisco, the fourth son of billionaire John Paul Getty. Now here's an interesting fellow: after serving several brief stints as an executive with his father's companies, he decided to chuck the corporate life to live quietly as an amateur composer and pianist. His share of the family fortune includes 31.8 million shares of Getty Oil, with an annual dividend of $83 million. His net worth is estimated to be $2.2 billion, but according to Malcolm Forbes, publisher of Forbes magazine, he'd gladly give it up to be a celebrity in the music world. What seems odd to this columnist is that a guy like Gordon Peter Getty can't buy his way onto the music pages. Oh, well, even the richest guy in America can't have everything he wants.

Two of the next wealthiest men in this country both have huge investments in the Boston area. The first is David Packard, 71, who, with a Stanford classmate, William Hewlett, founded the Hewlett-Packard computer firm. Packard, who served as deputy Secretary of Defense under President Richard Nixon, is still chairman of Hewlett-Packard. His share in the company is worth $1.85 billion.

The other is An Wang, 63, founder of Wang Laboratories. This Shanghai-born engineer emigrated to the United States shortly after World War II and received a Ph.D. in physics from Harvard. He invented something called the magnetic-core memory at the tender age of 28, and that invention became the essential component of all computers for two decades. He started up Wang Labs in 1951. The company's first year's sales totaled $15,000, and the company has grown, according to Forbes magazine, at a 50 percent yearly increase ever since. With his philosophy that "Education endures, buildings do not," Wang has been extremely philanthropic, beginning with his own Wang Institute, which he founded just three years ago. His fortune is estimated to be worth $1.6 billion.

One of the richest men in America got that way because he had a sweet tooth. He's Forrest E. Mars, Sr., 79, who controls the world's largest confectioner, Mars, Inc. According to Forbes, this guy is replacing Howard Hughes as the world's most reclusive, supersecretive rich man. He reportedly got down on his knees when he took over the Mars company and prayed for Milky Way and Snickers. It apparently worked, because his net worth is in the neighborhood of $1 billion.

Marvin Davis is your typical Horatio Alger story. This fifty-seven-year-old entrepreneur grew up in the garment district of Manhattan, and became one of this country's biggest wild-catters, buying up many inexpensive oil leases in the Rockies. Enough of those leases paid off to finance a few Denver skyscrapers, shopping centers and banks. Davis recently purchased 50 percent of Twentieth Century-Fox, and now devotes much of his time to it. His biggest ambition, evidently, is to own a baseball team (the Red Sox could use his money — just a hint), and he has plenty of money to buy one. His fortune is estimated to be $1 billion also.

The remainder of the billionaires on the Forbes list pretty much come from one family — the Hunts. For instance, Nelson Bunker Hunt, 57, the second son of H.L. Hunt, is worth $1.4 billion; Caroline Hunt Schoellkopf, 60, the second daughter of H.L. Hunt is conservatively estimated to be worth $1.3 billion, and may well be the richest woman in the world, says Forbes; Margaret Hunt Hill, 68, eldest child of H.L. Hunt, is the strong-willed matriarch of the Hunt family, rumored to be worth $1 billion; and William Herbert Hunt, 54, third son of H.L. Hunt, is the main cog in the family's seemingly unending sources of income, also estimated to be worth $1 billion.

Rounding out the billionaire list is David Rockefeller, 68, the grandson of John Davidson Rockefeller and youngest son of John D. Jr., who died in 1960. David Rockefeller is head of what is considered by Forbes and others to be the most powerful family in America. His net wealth, too, is around $1 billion. David's older brother, Laurance Spelman, has an estimated net worth of $650 million.

High-tech trailblazing

Yankee ingenuity helps New England break new ground in industry innovation

By Francine Kiefer
Staff writer of The Christian Science Monitor

Wang, Digital Equipment, Raytheon. New England has plenty of showcase, high-technology companies all right.

And economist Ben Chinitz feels confident the region's high-tech businesses will continue to grow. But much of his optimism over this state-of-the-art industry is based on something that happened here more than 150 years ago.

In those days, the big names were Almy and Brown, the Boston Manufacturing Company, and Amoskeag Manufacturing. They were the high-tech companies of the textile business, famous throughout the country for their innovations. And, their dogged attempts to speed up textile manufacturing developed a whole new industry for New Englanders — machine tools.

"We are particularly good at new technology," says Mr. Chinitz, an economist who specializes in regions. In his living room in Newton, Mass., hunting through a booklet of data, Chinitz makes a point: New England's strength was never really textiles or machine tools, or even electronics. The key to success here is innovation.

"History is our biggest asset," he says, and this history of innovation will keep New England at the forefront of technology.

Economists and business leaders give the region's six states top marks in the development of the high-tech industry, saying the growth will continue. They believe the area has a lot of advantages: excellent engineering schools, an abundance of local venture capital, and an established base of high-tech companies to build on. They do foresee some problems — such as competition from Asia and a shortage of scientists and engineers — but nothing peculiar to New England.

In her office overlooking Boston Harbor, Lynn Browne says New England owes a lot to its high-tech centers. An economist with the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, she explains, "High-tech has changed us from a position where we were much slower than the nation in [rates of] manufacturing growth, to where we are much faster." According to her broad definition of high-tech (which includes defense, chemicals, office equipment, electronic equipment, aircraft, various transport equipment, and instruments), about 10 percent of the people employed in New England's private sector hold high-tech jobs. She puts the national average at about 6 percent.

And, she adds, "high-tech is one of the most important factors that helped us weather the recession." While the nation suffered 9.7 percent unemployment for 1982, New England registered 7.8 percent. In September it was 6.5 percent, while the nation stood at 9.3 percent.

"My bottom-line assessment is optimistic," Chinitz agrees. He sees New England's high-tech growth continuing, "mostly because the demand for these products is strong. Even if we remained static — if we didn't do anything to encourage high-tech — we'd have strong growth because our eggs are in the right basket."

Chinitz, who also is dean of the College of Management Science at the University of Lowell, says New England breeds new ideas. Right now these ideas are taking shape in things like thinking computers and livestock cloning. As long as new concepts keep churning, the region will be able to keep these sectors. A company with rapidly changing product technology will have to stay in New England to keep up to date, he says.

Looking back in history again, Chinitz says, "If you can imagine the personal computer settling down the way radio did," then the region may begin to lose a few companies. Thousands of radio companies grew up near New York when the innovations were hot.

Once radio became standardized, "that's when companies look for a place where they can get distribution all over the country and at the lowest cost." In radio, the industry went through a shakeout and moved to the Midwest, where distribution was easier and costs lower.

In the meantime, the Northeast continues to go beyond the computer industry and develop other high-technology sectors. The University of Massachusetts — already well-known for its research in the makeup of various materials such as plastics and metals — is setting up a new polymer research center next year to examine and improve these plastics. Other disciplines getting more attention from colleges include biotechnology, biomedical engineering, miniaturization, software, and gravity-free science.

The region's high-tech leaders all have a different explanation for why New England hangs on to its companies — and keeps sprouting new ones.

Some say it's the vast amount of venture capital available to invest in new firms. Along with New York, Chicago, and San Francisco, Boston is a major center for venture capitalists — investors looking for start-up firms with huge potential returns. Business leaders here say no geographic region can hope to spawn strong technological growth unless it has plentiful sources of local funds.

Others praise the academic community here — calling it the best breeding ground in the country for talented engineers.

John Rennie, president of Pacer Systems Inc. and head of the Smaller Business Association of New England, says the interchange between the local universities and businesses is "one of the elements that makes this place go!" Pacer makes aviation-related equipment and does test and design work for contractors.

Pacer's headquarters in Burlington, Mass., is nestled in a tiny pine grove along one of those numbered avenues crowded with other high-tech firms. The avenue is a stone's throw from Route 128, Boston's "technology highway." Although Mr. Rennie has offices around the country to be close his markets, he says he'd like the impossible — for all of them to be located here. The degree to which academics and business leaders work together "is higher here than any place in the country," he says.

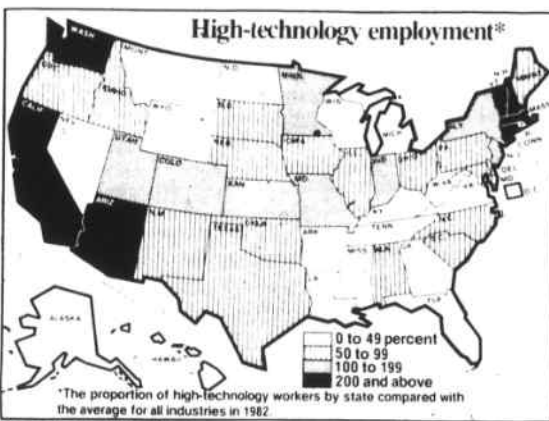

Good technical universities abound here, but the one that draws the most acclaim is the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. "I wouldn't want to claim we have the corner," says Vincent Fulmer, secretary of the MIT Corporation. At the same time, "we happen to be an engineering powerhouse," he says.

With quiet pride, Mr. Fulmer lists a slew of ways that MIT interacts with business and government: The university has more than 3,000 research contracts and grants; its professors are active consultants to industry; it runs cooperative education courses with local companies; it sponsors seminars just for small businesses; many of the Fortune 500 pay an annual fee to gain access to MIT research; the university makes a point of licensing its patents.

"If [this university] wants to stay in the lead — if [we] play the cutting edge — it's essential that [we] stay well-connected with business," he says. But the connection benefits business, too: About 400 companies have risen from MIT lab research since World War II. (Fulmer

Learn relaxation response at NEMH

Time management, goal setting, communication, personality differences and burn-out will all be topics of a Stress Management Seminar at New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham. The seminar is one of many programs being offered by the hospital's Health Education Department.

Considerable time will be spent learning and practicing the relaxation response to stress. Participants will also learn what stress does to the body — how it affects the physical condition, emotional welfare and relationships with family, friends and coworkers.

The seminar will be held on Thursday nights beginning February 9 for five weeks. Classes will run from 7:00-9:00 p.m. in the hospital auditorium. Cost for the seminar is $35.00.

For additional information call 665-1740, Extension 426.

Recruiting qualified scientists is a problem nationwide plays this down, though, saying MIT spinoffs are a drop in the bucket of new companies formed.)

Not only do New England companies turn to the universities for basic research, but they also depend on them for manpower. "New England, by virtue of its academic base, is a very good market for talent," says John Pasquariello, vice-president, manufacturing, for the Raytheon Company, the largest industrial employer in Massachusetts.

Graduates tend to fan out to companies in the area — or start businesses of their own. "Small firms get started wherever the guy happens to live. That's why the universities are so important," says economist Browne.

Small firms also hatch from big firms when people in large companies think they can build a better mousetrap, or when employees can't convince the companies to act on their ideas. A generation of spinoffs from the major high-tech firms are now growing up in the area. Technology in the region "is now building on itself," comments Mrs. Browne.

As these new companies are born — or as existing companies expand — the trick is to keep them here.

A number of states have launched mighty marketing campaigns to reel in high-tech firms. Mr. Pasquariello of Raytheon says "active solicitors" visit him regularly, trying to interest the company in expanding to their neck of the woods.

But when they come knocking at Raytheon, they don't find a taker.

"They all sound alike," Pasquariello generalizes. "They all have a 'very productive native work force.' They all claim to have low state taxes and state-paid training. They trumpet their quality of life. It would take a very unusual set of circumstances to get us to move. We want to add on to our existing facilities here."

The real advantage of staying put, he says, is that "we are already here. . . . The continuity of product line and engineering know-how about the product line exists here in plants in New England." Expanding the electronics division out of the area would be inefficient, he explains. "You would have to move a substantial number of your general people, or face starting with new people and not building on your own know-how."

Still, business leaders have complaints. John Rennie of Pacer Systems thinks the school system is deteriorating because of Proposition 2½, which drastically reduced property taxes across the state. And many engineers prefer warmer climates, he says. These things are important when a company recruits engineers.

By far the biggest worry is the talent pool of engineers. "There is not much free-floating talent," Rennie says. Companies have to work extra hard to keep employees from jumping ship to another nearby company that may offer a higher salary or a more exciting opportunity. "If anything would limit my ability to grow here it would be the availability of technical people," he says.

This is a national problem, but it's being tackled on the local level. The Massachusetts High Technology Council — a lean, no-nonsense group of local chief executive officers — has convinced its member companies to earmark 2 percent of their annual research and development budgets to local universities. Last year, the amount totaled $54 million. And the council has been a force behind tax reductions. "We buried the slogan, Taxachusetts," says Howard Foley, president of the council. "Very few people pack up and move out [to find a place with lower taxes]." Foley adds, but it's a factor when it comes time for company expansion.

NEW PARENTS

The Nursing Mother's Council is pleased to announce that it will now be offering regular monthly coffees at 7:30 p.m. on the last Wednesday of each month at the Wakefield Public Library, Main Street, Wakefield.

These informal meetings provide opportunities for parents to meet others with similar concerns and interests. All are welcome (babies, too, of course). For further information call 665-3405.

The Nursing Mother's Council is expanding rapidly in the North Shore area. Barbara Low of Melrose, the Group Area Leader, says "We're so pleased that Susan Saraladaridis of Wakefield and Donna Selger of Reading have completed the Counselor Training Program. Each new counselor we add and each new town we cover helps us to spread our support and information to the mothers in the area who may need it."

The Nursing Mother's Council is non-profit. It is an integral part of BACE (Boston Area for Childbirth Education). Members are women who have been trained in the field of breastfeeding and counseling. All members have successfully nursed at least one child. This group offers 24-hour telephone counseling and also conduct free monthly discussions on various aspects of breastfeeding, postpartum life and early parenting. The Council has been in operation for more than twenty years, but has only recently begun offering services in the North Shore area.

AUDITIONS

All the latest hunting and fishing equipment, unique clinics and seminars by the most famous national and local outdoor experts, everything designed strictly for the outdoorsman or woman, it will all be there.

FEBRUARY VACATION

Make your reservations now for the February vacation production of "Hans Brinker," proudly presented by the Boston Children's Theatre.

Join us and share in the joy and magic of this inspiring classic. This dramatic story by Mary Mapes Dodge of life in Holland was one of the first tales written for American children about a foreign country. It is sure to enchant one and all.

Hans Brinker and his family live by the dismal, icy canal. They become very poor when the father suffers a terrible brain injury and cannot work. Because of their poverty Hans Brinker and his sister must skate on crude, wooden homemade skates that hurt their feet and make them fall. Nonetheless, the two children compete in the skating race on the great canal in Amsterdam for the most wonderful prize, a pair of silver skates.

Don't miss this exciting production. "Hans Brinker" will play for eight performances only at New England Life Hall, 225 Clarendon Street in Copley Square, Boston on February 8, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26 and March 3 at 2:00 p.m. Tickets are $3.50, $5.50 and $6.00 with group rates available. Call 277-3277 for reservations and brochures.

The Boston Children's Theatre Touring Company will bring live theatre to your community this season. "Poh and Tigger, Too," a new and original adaptation from the A.A. ## HOST FAMILIES

Host families are needed in Massachusetts to host English-speaking European teachers as guests in their homes for a seven to ten day period this coming summer.

American Host Foundation is the only non-profit, nongovernmental program designed to show the American way of life to European teachers by pairing them with American families. It is a nationwide home hospitality program which is endorsed by the Department of State.

Now in its 22nd year American Host has opened the doors to better understanding for more than 13,000 English-speaking European teachers who have passed on their new understanding to their students, friends and colleagues when they have returned to their homelands.

Being a Host Family is open to anyone who has the desire to increase understanding and friendship between Europeans and Americans. Host Families are required to provide a private room and meals for their guest and to give their guest the opportunity to meet friends, neighbors, and to see local sights.

The American Host Foundation arranges all transportation but Host Families are asked to meet their guests on arrival in their area. Visitors and Host Families have the opportunity to correspond for at least a month prior to the visit.

Anyone interested in being a Host Family or learning more about the Foundation's activities may write to: American Host Program, 12747 Brookhurst Street, Garden Grove, California 92640, telephone (714) 537-5711.

A night of Country Music

Andover-We're all familiar with the catchy phrase and song title, "Stompin' at the Savoy," but now we are going to have "Stompin' at the Collins."

All the stompin' and hand-clapping enthusiasts in the Merrimack Valley area are invited to a fun-filled and tune-filled evening at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts Friday, February 17 at 8 p.m. to frolic with Banjo Dan and the Mid-Nite Plowboys from Vermont and Country Gazette from Oklahoma in "A Night of Country Music."

Banjo Dan and the Mid-Nite Plowboys present the best New England Bluegrass around. For over nine years, Banjo Dan and the Mid-Nite Plowboys have delighted Bluegrass devotees around New England and across the country. Many of Banjo Dan's followers are folks who had no prior exposure to Bluegrass, but due to the groups' popularity in the region, saw them at one or more of their concert engagements, and have become solid foot stompin', hand-clapping Bluegrass enthusiasts.

Country Gazette, in their New England debut, have been called "America's most versatile Bluegrass Band." Each year, Country Gazette travels more than 80,000 miles to entertain its fans. They have played in over 40 states from the college and university circuit to fairs, concert halls and festivals. They present a dynamic program of Bluegrass music sure to set the stompers and clappers shouting for more.

For tickets to see "A Night of Country Music" at the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts in Andover on Friday, February 17 at 8 p.m., call 470-1905 or stop by the Collins Center Box Office on Shawsheen Road off Rte. 133 on the campus of Andover High School. ## Dress children right for winter Children like clothing that is comfortable and will allow them to sit, run, jump, and play. Dressing children warmly in winter can be costly, but it may cut down on doctor bills and days missed at school.

Keeping in body heat, and selecting garments of the right fabrics and style will keep your child warm and safe says Mary Mulvey Williams, Extension Home Economist with the

Middlesex County Extension Service. To keep in Body Heat:

Wear More Than One Layer — Several light weight, loosely fitted layers keep a child warmer than one heavy layer. Trapped air between layers becomes insulation and keeps out the cold. Wear cotton or cotton-polyester blend turtlenecks, underneath blouses, shirts, and dresses.

Wear Loosely Fitted Clothing — Tight clothing slows down the flow of blood so child feels colder. Avoid too tight gloves, waistbands, pants, shoes and socks.

Wear Thick, Fuzzy Fabrics — Choose fabrics such as corduroy, flannel, fleece, quilted, velour, pile, thermal, and sweater fabrics.

Wear Underclothing That Breathes — Cotton and synthetic knits allow perspiration to escape instead of making clothing wet. Thermal knits add extra warmth.

Wear Socks Inside Thick-Soled Shoes or Boots — If shoes or boots will not be too tight, put on light-weight pair of cotton socks first and then a heavier pair of loosely fitting socks. Ankle and higher boots and shoes are warmer than low ones. Tennis shoes with thin flexible rubber soles and canvas tops are cold because cold air passes through and body heat escapes.

Wear Cap or Hood — Since much body heat radiates from the head, keep child's head covered. A tightly fitted cap or hood of thick wool-like fabric pile or quilted lining is a good choice. Cover the lower part of the face with a scarf or a face mask for extra warmth.

Wear Mittens — Wearing mittens allows the fingers to keep each other warm. Wear more than one pair if not too tight and bulky. A water repellent finish will help keep hands dry and warmer. Vinyl mittens and boots dried near radiator may stiffen and crack.

Wear Clean Clothing — Dirt clogs the air spaces in clothing. This reduces insulation.

By Warren Richey
Staff writer of The Christian Science Monitor

Gloucester, Mass.

Inside the small, dark taverns in this fisherman's town, they are telling the worst kinds of fish stories. Rick Randazza, who works the 90-foot stern trawler Taormina, remembers tying up at port with a hold full of fish after several days at sea... only to learn the fish prices had recently plummeted.

"There were 44 Canadian trucks in Boston unloading fresh haddock," he says.

So the skipper decided to put the Taormina's catch on ice and hope for a price increase. "We gained 15 cents by waiting two days," Mr. Randazza says in disgust. Overall, the catch wasn't very profitable.

"It's a gamble every time we go out there."

Other fishermen sitting nearby in the tavern nod in agreement. It's a story they've all heard before.

"You can't say we go fishing to make money, because there aren't any guarantees that we'll make money — there are no guarantees in this business," says Joe Testaverde, skipper of the 59-foot trawler Peter & Linda.

That's the way it's been for generations of New England fishermen.

"In the winter it is cold and in the summer it is hot. And you are working up to your knees in slime, and guts, and blood," Mr. Testaverde says. "I like to fish — the aggravations, the not knowing. It's the most uncertain job in the world. But if I didn't like it, I wouldn't do it."

There are more than 3,500 full-time fishermen working out of New England ports. In 1983 they pulled in more than 318 million pounds of food fish. Of that, about 140 million pounds were cod, haddock, or flounder — the three major moneymaking fish in the region.

On any given winter day a fisherman may find himself at the mercy of wind-swept waves, ice-covered decks and equipment, sudden squalls, broken nets, or a poor catch. But none of these has more to do with the success or failure of his work than the auction conducted early each morning in Boston and New Bedford to set the price of fish for that day.

It all depends on the availability of fish in the market. Fish prices can vary as much as 500 percent in the course of a year and 100 percent from day to day. And it's not until a fisherman learns the set price that he knows if he'll make a profit on his catch.

For fishermen who fish one day at a time (the "day-trippers"), there are two circumstances that can cancel a fishing trip: rough seas or low prices.

But conditions are different for the larger trawlers. Their trips often last several days; when they return they are usually stuck with whatever price is set for that day.

That's apparently what happened to the Taormina.

But the system works the other way as well. If the price happens to be high when a skipper comes into port with a lot of fish, his boat makes a lot of money.

According to Dominic Sanfilippo, skipper of the 80-foot trawler Captain Dominic, it can cost $7,000 to $8,000 for fuel, ice, insurance, food, and other expenses just to get a boat out to the fishing grounds to begin fishing. If the catch is small, or the fish prices low, the boat and its crew lose money.

Despite the hardships inherent in the system, no one here is proposing any changes — changes that almost certainly would impinge on each fisherman's cherished freedom to fish when and where he wants.

Three years ago, a group of fishermen in New Bedford tried to change the system. Tired of low prices for fish, the fishermen banded together and refused to deliver fresh fish to the market until prices rose. They held out for three weeks, but the effort eventually broke down. It has not been repeated.

Local fishermen want a bigger share of fresh fish market

New England fishermen net a Catch-22

In Gloucester, Mass., a fisherman can pay $7,000 just to get his boat out to the fishing grounds — much more than it costs his Canadian competitor

Early each morning, an auction in Boston and New Bedford sets the price of fish for that day. Fish prices can vary as much as 500 percent in the course of a year and 100 percent from day to day. And it's not until a fisherman learns the set price that he knows if he'll make a profit on his catch.

Mass Turnpike has bond burning ceremony

Chairman John T. Driscoll, of the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, announced today at a "bond burning" ceremony that the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority has taken necessary legal action to call for redemption, effective Jan. 31, 1984, the remaining $12,489,000 of the $254,000,000 initial turnpike revenue bonds issued in 1954 and 1968 to finance the construction and widening of the turnpike between the New York State line and Route 128 in Weston.

Driscoll said that he, "considered the retirement of the turnpike debt to be a major milestone in the history of the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority and a positive influence on the Commonwealth's credit standing. The Massachusetts turnpike is one of the Commonwealth's valuable assets, not only in terms of present and future income production, but as an essential contributor to commerce and to the welfare of the citizens of the Commonwealth."

Noting that final payment of these bond issues is not legally one facility, the Massachusetts Turnpike.

Effective January 1, 1984, the revenues of the newly-formed Massachusetts Turnpike will be due and payable until the years 1994 and 2008, the chairman stated: "It is important, I believe, to demonstrate to the citizens of the Commonwealth and to the financial community, that Massachusetts public instrumentalities are prepared to liquidate debt as fast as prudent fiscal policy permits. In this regard, the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority's commitment to its bond retirement program is carefully balanced with the Authority's policy to provide the necessary funds to maintain the Massachusetts turnpike at its existing high level of service and safety."

"Now that the retirement of initial turnpike bonds has been accomplished, the authority, by predetermined financial planning and commitment made in 1962, which made the building of the Boston Extension possible, will now combine the financial assets of the initial turnpike with the financial assets of the Boston extension (Route 128 to the Southeast Expressway) and, effective Jan. 1, 1984, operate these two previously financially independent turnpike sections as dedicated to payment of operating expenses, extraordinary maintenance, bond interest and retirement of $245,600,000 of Boston Extension

Revenue Bonds. Barring unforeseen adverse economic or other circumstances, we expect that the Boston extension debt can be liquidated by 1993-95."

PETER MAIN — STAFF

"With no tariff and no quota, the Canadians get a free ride with this fishing industry," says Michael Orlando,

When fish prices are low, many fishermen won't net a profit

Most New England fishermen are willing to concede the frozen market to their foreign competitors. Local fish-

Fishing industry representatives admit that sales suffer in some respects from the image problem of fish. They acknowledge that no one in the fishing industry has done for the haddock what Frank Perdue has done for the hen.

Fish sticks helped the fishing industry, but they didn't help New England fishermen. Fish sticks and other fish portions (like those in McDonald's fish fillet sandwiches) are made from frozen fish — and almost all the frozen fish used in the US comes from Canada.

Data on cereal boxes

By the Editors of Consumer Reports

DEAR CONSUMER REPORTS: I recently compared the nutrition panels from a box of Kellogg's Corn Flakes and Nutri-Grain Corn Flakes, which is also made by Kellogg. Both panels indicated that the cereal alone provides two grams of protein which, with a half-cup of milk, becomes six grams of protein. Under the percent age chart, however, the 4 percent of RDA (Recommended Daily Allowance) for the regular corn flakes becomes 10 percent with the addition of a half-cup of milk, but with Nutri-Grain, the 4 percent becomes 15 percent when the milk is added. Can you explain this? And how reliable in general are the nutrition figures on cereal boxes?

DEAR READER: We don't know how this is accomplished, either. The protein in the cereal and the milk is the same in both cases. The difference in the RDA percentages is either a typographical error, or someone used different RDA charts for each of the tables. There are different RDAs, of course, for differences in the sex and age of people.

As for reliability, we have found the gram data to be reliable, within the rounding-off permitted by law. They are based on analysis, not computation. The usefulness of the vitamin percentages is less certain. Other constituents of cereal products can interfere with your body's utilization of some vitamins, even though chemical analysis will prove the vitamins are indeed there.

The "best" solution is a well-balanced diet. The necessary nutrients will always be there if the foods you eat are varied.

Give a Carnation

By William Pacino

The carnation will be delivered for a nominal fee sometime on February 12, along with the sender's personal message. ## Black-and-white sprouts

The Soccer Farm, widely regarded as New England's finest soccer clinic has begun accepting registrations for their 12th season. Located at Fairfield University in Fairfield, Conn., and Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., the Soccer Farm offers boarding and day sessions in July and August.

Last year over five hundred players ages 6 to 18 attended.

The Soccer Farm is unique among instructional clinics. A staff to student ratio of one to five is the best in the country and helps to insure more individualized instruction and better supervision. For the boys' and girls' sessions there are team rates, early registration discounts, and a unique scholarship program.

For more information, write Jim Kaufman, 101 Oak St., Wellesley or phone 237-1335 evenings.

Wild Horse adoptions

Over 400 wild horses and burros from western rangelands found homes in the Northeast during 1983, according to Frank and Doris Goodlander, operators of the Northeastern Adoption Center located near Lewisberry, Pennsylvania. The Goodlanders run the center under contract to the Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management.

Coming Attractions

By William Pacino

Residents of eleven northeast states adopted 276 wild horses and 143 wild burros from the center under the bureau's Adopt-A-Horse and Burro Program. There are now 10,686 adopted animals in the East since the program's inception less than a decade ago.

Over 60,000 wild horses and burros under federal protection now roam the public ranges in ten western states. To avoid starvation due to overpopulation, the Bureau of Land Management rounds up excess wild horses and burros and offers them for adoption to people who promise to give them good homes. A fee of $215 per horse and $140 per burro is collected to help pay the cost of roundup, veterinary care, transportation, and administrative expenses.

Adopters must provide humane care for animals for at least twelve months before they may apply and receive ownership from the Bureau. During this time, the horses and burros can be trained and used for all the same purposes as domestic animals. Adopted horses have won endurance races, plowing contests, and have made particularly good 4-H projects. Adopted burros make interesting pets, have been taught to break show calves, and have often been used as sure-footed pack animals.

For more information, contact the Northeastern Adoption Center, P.O. Box 178, Lewisberry, Penn. 17339. Telephone (717) 938-2560.

A new publication has just been announced that will increase attorney efficiency and effectiveness in handling Massachusetts real estate transactions. Entitled "Massachusetts Real Estate", it is written by Robert Marzelli and is published by the Lawyers Cooperative Publishing Company of Rochester, New York.

This compact, looseleaf manual systematizes routine legal tasks necessary for fast, confident handling of common real estate proceedings. Based on up-to-date Mass. real estate law, the new manual details practice and procedures for a number of real estate activities. These include: purchase and sale of residential real property; obtaining building and use permits; zoning variances, and subdivision approvals; evaluating real estate title as to marketability; and representing mortgagees. The book also deals with wetlands protection, foreclosures and the representation of either landlord or tenant in summary process for eviction.

For further information on the new "Massachusetts Real Estate" or other publications in the Mass. Practice Systems Library, contact: Lawyers Cooperative Publishing Company, Microlex Building, Rochester, New York 14694.

From real estate law to soccer farms, from wild horses to Creative Thinking, COMING ATTRACTIONS has something for everyone. But if you know of an event of interest to all that we are overlooking, write, copy of this local newspaper, and tell us all about it. Interesting news will always get the best amount of space.

Tax collector named as treasurer

Wilmington tax collector Marion Murphy has been appointed acting treasurer by Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski. She replaces Antonio Almeida, who has resigned in a matter officially described as "questionable judgement."

Mrs. Murphy, who has been tax collector since April 1, 1968, will serve as both treasurer and tax collector.

Stapczynski, in a memo to the selectmen, said that he will be researching the feasibility of permanently combining the positions into one job. The object of such a move would not be a cost savings, though, because any savings from eliminating one position would be offset by added clerical help. It would, though, provide more effective use of personnel, Stapczynski said.

In the combined position, Mrs. Murphy will receive an "equitable amount" for her added responsibilities, but it would be far less than the combined salaries of the two positions.

Cars seized but no charges filed

No charges have been filed, but state police are holding nine cars confiscated from a Wilmington auto dealer Thursday evening.

The Mass. State Police stolen car task force removed seven of the cars from Wallace Motors in Wilmington, and two more from a lot owned by Wallace in Stoneham.

The raid was given heavy television coverage, but state police this week referred all questions to the attorney general's office. A spokesman from that office said that there is usually no comment made until a matter goes to court, but said he would try to release some information.

Ralph Wallace, Jr., owner of the firm, said that of the nine cars taken, three or four had been left there by a man fired as service manager last month. The cars all had service orders written, and were apparently registered to that man's relatives.

Wallace said that the other cars confiscated had been purchased at auction from the Kemper Auto Insurance Co. They were recovered stolen cars which had not been removed from the "hot sheet."

Trio indicted for armed robbery

A Middlesex County Grand Jury has returned indictments against three men arrested on Nov. 10 for a gas station robbery in Wilmington.

Charles Shannon, 32, of North Reading was indicted on charges of armed robbery, possession of a dangerous weapon, and assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, a knife.

Robert J. Lindsay, 27, and George E. Laurie, 26, both of Burlington were each indicted on a charge of armed robbery. All three men are being held in the Billerica House of Correction.

The incident for which the men were indicted took place at the Forrest Mobil station on Lowell Street. Police received a call from a passer-by at one minute past midnight, saying that two men were holding up the station.

Upon responding, police found Shannon and Laurie in the station. The attendant told police that Shannon had put a knife to him and taken $150.00. Both men were arrested at the scene. Lindsay was arrested by Reading police after he fled. He had been waiting in a car, police said.

Prop. 1.35

The effort to renovate Wilmington High School has taken on the name of "Prop. 1.35", so called because the cost to each Wilmington homeowner is estimated at $1.35 a week. Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski gave the first $1.35 to task force leader Lorna Stockbridge Monday night. Looking on is David Fraser of the fincom.

Task force supporting high school renovations

Eighteen women, mothers of school children, have formed a task force for the purpose of getting a favorable vote for the renovation of Wilmington High School. Some of them met last Friday with Superintendent of Schools Dr. Carol Sager, to discuss the problems.

There was a favorable vote last fall, in the town meeting for the proposed renovation and enlargement of the high school. Voters who were at the meeting amended the article so as to enlarge the gymnasium, more than had been proposed by the Permanent Building Committee.

Because the proposal exceeded the financial limits of Proposition 2½, there had to be a referendum vote last November. At that vote the proposals to renovate and enlarge were turned down by the town.

Now the Permanent Building Committee has revised its plans. The current proposal not only does not have the larger gymnasium voted last fall, but has also cut down expenditures on tennis courts and bleachers. The Permanent Building Committee is submitting an article to the town meeting (April 28) to ask for $6.5 million for the high school renovations and additions.

The PBC is also proposing to have the referendum vote on April 21, at the time the voters of Wilmington cast their ballots for town officials. That may not be an easy task.

Task force

Several women representing Parent Advisory Committees from Wilmington schools have organized a task force to work for approval of renovations to Wilmington High School. Front, from left: Karen Heller, Middlesex Avenue; Lorna Stockbridge, Catherine Avenue; Dr. Carol Sager, supt. of schools; and Karen Armata, of Park Street. Rear: Maureen Sheehan, Freeport Drive; Cheryl Soderquist, Hobson Avenue; Ellery Shaw, Ella Avenue; Liz Wheeler, Glen Road; and Joanne Neale, Webber Street.

Fincom begins budget hearings

Chairman Bill Hanlon of the Wilmington Finance Committee, Tuesday night complimented the town manager on the preparation and presentation of proposals for capital improvements in Wilmington, for he coming town meeting. It was, he said, a "good job."

Hanlon then went on to wish that Wilmington had a stabilization fund, to help even out the capital expenses over the years. It is a wish that has been made several times during the past quarter century.

Walter Kaminski proposed the idea of a bylaw where, before anything else in the annual town meeting $100,000 should be appropriated for the stabilization fund. It would mean, he said, that when the town wanted to buy some needed item, in capital improvement, it could have a few hundred thousand dollars in reserve.

The meeting was not one of decisions, but rather of discussion of problems, with some possible solutions. For instance:

TM Buzz Stapczynski has a budget item of $80,000 for the renovation of the sewer system at the Shawsheen School. Selectman Rocco DePasquale had another idea.

There is a sewer main, on Lake Street and Grove Avenue, Rocco pointed out. For maybe $100,000 the town can connect the Shawsheen School to that sewer main and then pay for this over a period of time. That would free some of the town funds for other purposes.

Another item: Last year, because asbestos had been discovered in the Wildwood School a considerable sum of money had to be diverted to take out that asbestos. The town manager said that, because of that, the purchase of curtains for a number of schools had to be set aside.

Now he has an item for $18,000 for new curtains for the schools. New curtains for the North School would cost $1500. For the Shawsheen School they would cost $3500. For the West School the expense would be $2,000. For the Wildwood School the cost would be $1500 etc. The curtains, Stapczynski told the committee, are badly needed.

New clapboards are needed for the Harnden Tavern. The sum of $15,000 was discussed. The possibility of state and other funds was discussed. Stapczynski told the fincom he has applied for matching funds, from the state, to replace those clapboards in the tavern.

The town manager has a tentative sum of $50,000 for a new water tower in North Wilmington. It would be in the town forest, in the north part of the town. It is his belief that the cost could be more, but that some of the owners of industrial land in North Wilmington will contribute rights of way, etc.

A new van, for the transportation of senior citizens was not discussed. The expected price will be $20,000.

Buzz told the fincom that he has been discussing with the architect who is planning a new pumping station for North Wilmington the idea of having a room there 12 feet by 12 feet, for Civil Defense.

He feels that the time is coming for the town to put the sewer department into the same classification as the water department, in state law. The water department operates under the provisions of an act of the legislature, voted back in the 1920s. The revenue from the sale of water pays for the expenses,
